Imagine waking up to the Continental Divide stretched across the horizon, sunlight filtering through a grove of aspens, and elk moving quietly through the trees.

At 960 Coyote Circle, this is not a weekend getaway. It is everyday life.

This custom log home was made for buyers who want something increasingly rare: beauty, privacy, space and an authentic connection to Colorado. Set on a flat, aspen-filled mountain lot with sweeping 180-degree views, the property offers a front-row seat to every season. Summers are green and peaceful. Winters transform the surrounding peaks into a dramatic alpine landscape. And in autumn, the aspens turn brilliant gold, surrounding the home in one of Colorado's most spectacular natural displays.

Inside, generous natural light fills the home and draws your attention outward, where the scenery becomes part of the architecture. There is an unmistakable warmth to a custom log home—the kind of character that cannot be recreated in new construction—and here it is paired with expansive views and an extraordinary setting.

Step outside with coffee in the morning and you may find deer grazing nearby. Elk, moose and wild turkeys are regular visitors, offering a daily reminder that you are living somewhere truly special.

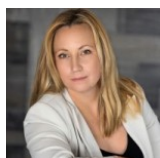

For the buyer who actually lives the Colorado lifestyle, the four-car garage is an exceptional advantage—room for vehicles, bikes, skis, outdoor equipment, tools, toys or the workshop you have always wanted. And unlike many mountain properties, the flat lot provides genuinely usable space to entertain, relax, explore and enjoy the land around you.

This is the home for someone ready to trade traffic, rooftops and crowded neighborhoods for aspens, wildlife, mountain air and a horizon that seems to go forever.

960 Coyote Circle is not simply a place to live.

It is the Colorado life people spend years dreaming about.

Come see it once. You may not want to leave.
